Guinea Pig Dream

Guinea pigs originally come from South America. In the nature, they live on a wide variety of plants. Like rabbits, chinchillas and degus, they are specialists in eating green plants. We have looked closely at what guinea pigs in the nature in South America eat and incorporated our findings into the basic feed. Along with the many valuable raw materials, the South American plants make GuineaPigDream the ideal basic feed.

Some hamsters love nothing more than eating their pellets and extrudates, while others leave them untouched in their bowl. Picking out parts of a feed mix like this leaves the pets short of key nutrients such as vitamins and trace elements. VitalPlus-granivor, a special mix of vitamins and trace elements, eliminates the need for pellets and extrudates in the Expert products.

Dwarf hamsters love occupying themselves extensively with their food. For this reason our new balanced formula with all its diverse components is so valuable to our little loveable speedsters. The most important aspect is that no fruit is added in order to prevent diabetes.

Just like humans, not every pet likes the same foods. Some dwarf hamsters absolutely refuse to eat pellets and extrudates, for example. We have now succeeded in developing our BASIC product pellet and extrudate refuseniks. Our special mix of vitamins and trace elements makes it possible to do without vitamin pellets, for example, altogether. Additional power ingredients provide additional proteins and minerals.
